

About the FamilySearch Website

- “Since its launch in 1999, FamilySearch has added millions of users, billions of various historical records, and many fun, new features like Family Tree, Memories, mobile apps, digital books, and dynamic help. In order to accommodate continued growth of these and future free services, FamilySearch must assure all its partners that its content is offered in a safe and secure online environment.”
- “FamilySearch is committed to patron privacy and does not share personal account information with any third party without a patron’s consent.”
- “Be aware that if you do add names to the family tree on FamilySearch, those names of deceased relatives will be available publicly on FamilySearch’s family tree.” Living people’s information will be kept private. Only you can see what you add for a living person.
- “Family Tree” on the FamilySearch website, “is a massive, interactive, collaborative tree created by submissions to FamilySearch programs over the past decades and by current users as well as from other records.”
- “FamilySearch International is the largest genealogy organization in the world.” “FamilySearch is a nonprofit, volunteer-driven organization sponsored by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Millions of people use FamilySearch records, resources, and services to learn more about their family history. To help in this great pursuit, FamilySearch and its predecessors have been actively gathering, preserving, and sharing genealogical records worldwide for over 100 years. Patrons may access FamilySearch services and resources free online at FamilySearch.org or through 4,745 family history centers in 129 countries, including the main Family History Library in Salt Lake City, Utah.”
- FamilySearch has friendly volunteers willing to help out with any problem you may encounter on FamilySearch 24 hours a day, 7 days a week! Help is only a phone call away at 1-866-406-1830.
